

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. An ammonia generating apparatus comprising: a urea water introducing part; a flow passage for urea water to flow therethrough; and heating means, wherein the flow passage is
5 connected to the urea water introducing part, and the heating means heats urea water present within the flow passage.
2. The ammonia generating apparatus as claimed in Claim 1, wherein part of the flow passage is formed into a helical part, and the heating means is placed inside the helical part.

070316 011001